Administrators plan the goals

Philip H. Vercoe, principal, meets with all the new faculty members before the semester begins. Here he is welcoming Robert Leach, one of the ten new teachers to join this year's staff.

What to teach, when and where to teach it, are part of the programming job Howard Auer, assistant principal, works out for 3,200 students and 101 faculty members.

If a new school year is to get off to a successful start, plans and ideas must be well formulated and made in advance.

School administrators meet before the school term begins and decide what classes shall be taught, who shall teach them, the schedule of activities for the coming year and other issues that are necessary for the smooth operation of the year's program.

and objectives of the school year

To discuss policies and make decisions the administration meets in advance of the school's opening.

Planning the calendar for Central's numerous activities is one of the duties that Miss Mabel Pinel, dean of girls, accomplishes before school starts.

Assigning a counselor to each student enrolled in Central is a duty Stanley O. Broome, dean of boys, takes care of before the students arrive.

Chivalry, my dear sir! As typing instructor William Bennett opens the door for Aaron Amtsbuechler of the sales department, Clyde Barnett, bookkeeping teacher, skeptically views the situation.

"Culture, dependability, and appearance are only a few of the many personal qualifications necessary to be a successful business woman," stresses Mrs. Hazel DeHart to her business class.

Checking pupils' records is Mrs. Erma Carpenter, typing instructor.

"Today wasn't quite so hectic as other days this week have been," sighs Earl Emery to George Bland, both members of the Business Department.

Instructors help students

Hats off to the business education teachers! Through their efforts, commercial students become skilled in such courses as typing shorthand, bookkeeping, retail selling and office practice, all preliminary steps towards a successful business career.

"We teachers don't really lead a dog's life," jests Theodore Huizenga to another teacher specialized in the business field, Miss Hulda Gibson.

Students may not smile at their marks, but Mrs. Edna Redd and Mrs. Julia Grotts, shorthand teachers, were smiling as they filed them.

with work routines

Doing their share to keep Flint strong are the teachers of the industrial art courses.

Under their guidance, boys enrolled in a printing or drafting class, wood shop, machine shop or auto shop either make plans to continue their education by following a technical or engineering course, or they enter industry immediately, thus helping to keep Flint alive.

"Looks like we have some future carpenters here," comments Thomas Pottor to Robert Starmer about their woodshop students.

"Hm-m, the best way to solve this problem would be to . . .," muses Edgar Dobler as he prepares a good explanation for his curious shop math students.

Checking to see that their auto shop pupils have satisfactorily adjusted the motor are Charles Clark and Joseph Myers, auto shop teachers.

"The accuracy and ability of my machine drawing students are progressing," boasts Howard Rarick to Osborn Stappert, who also instructs machine drawing.

"The students learn to recognize the parts of the press and the fundamentals of printing they produce," explains Lee Sherman to fellow industrial arts teacher, Wilfred Crissman.

Aside from their numerous other duties, Miss Joyce Peck and Miss Lillian Weller must choose the proper text book for Senior English classes.

English is the instrument for

Specialized training is required for English instruction, just as specialized tools are required in automobile production.

Teaching English requires specialization in reading skills, communication skills, and in appreciation of the English language and its literature.

These instructors, in a sense specialized tools, help students, the materials, understand and appreciate these skills.

A teacher's work is never done! Russell Morcum takes time to compare graded papers with those of fellow English instructors, Mrs. Celia Armstrong and Mrs. Virginia Roberson.

Their mutual interest in the English department gives Thomas Davey and Ernest Cole opportunity for discussion.

"Too bad my English classes aren't as enthusiastic as the students in this article," comments Kenneth Greene to fellow English instructors Miss Jacqueline Kramer and Stanley White.

communicating ideas

*Bob,
To me, you are the best in the future!
Schilling
57*

Correcting English compositions most teachers consider a nuisance, but Vincent Abrams and Phillip Laesch find it amusing.

Records by the Old Vic Company from London supplement the study of Macbeth in Miss Grace Field's and Miss Miriam Darling's English literature class.

Ralph Carpenter takes a moment from grading his personal math papers to supervise his study hall.

Trig seems easy when someone else explains it, but try to do it yourself without the wonderful help and patience of Miss Mildred Fitch!

Robert Krabill points out the proof of a geometry problem to his class.

Mathematics is

Math courses stress the importance of theorems, rules, logical thinking and reasoning.

With the guidance of specially trained instructors mathematics students study the principles and applications of mathematics.

To meet the increasing emphasis on math and science courses, more intensive courses are offered to students with superior ability and interest.

Beginning another long day of school is Robert Brawner, basic mathematics and geometry teacher, who mounts the stairs on the way to his room.

Making a schedule for her math class is Miss Vivien Jeand'heur.

Interested students look on as Roy McMurray, modern science and basic math teacher, explains the day's assignment.

A slight smile indicates that Roy Mander, mathematics instructor, is amused with the outcome of corrected geometry papers.

the language of science

"Algebra is not so difficult as you try to make it," declares Miss Ruth Reik as she tirelessly aids a puzzled pupil.

Miss Cornelia Van Doorn patiently answers the questions of her geometry students.

How to Help Bewildered Geometry Scholars is the name of the pamphlet being carefully scrutinized by geometry teachers Miss Helen Haines and Miss Florence Bishop.

To one of my Best friends, "at though" I hardly know you. Best of luck in the years to come.
If you work hard and keep the wonderful personality you show
"go o c c o" far in life. "How really." to a real sweet girl best of luck in the years to come.

Explaining his display on the classification of plants and animals to a fellow biology teacher, Mrs. Freda Parmelee, is Leonard Redd.

Leonard Redd Biology II

Got him! The capture of a jellyfish absorbs the attention of James Whittaker and his biology class.

There, a slight adjustment and the demonstration is ready to be explained. Mrs. Jacqueline Culnon, biology and family living teacher, prepares a microprojector for Arnold Wagner.

"Oops! I almost had it," says Edward Brigham while getting a frog specimen for his biology class.

Science tests

Field trips, animal dissections, and scientific charts are a few of the activities occupying the time of the Biology Department.

Experiments, discussions, and analyses are performed under the supervision of instructors in the Chemistry and Physics Departments.

Adjusting Central's up-to-date physics equipment are physics teachers, Chester Henry and Ward Walworth.

A new addition to Central's science department is Miss Virginia Lewis, who is shown here checking the experiments of her chemistry class.

the why and how

This year the pride of the Science Department was an electrical distribution board that transmits AC and DC currents to all physic rooms and desk outlets.

With the aid of new equipment and better facilities, the principles of science are deeply impressed on students' minds.

Setting up a heat experiment for his modern science class is Homer Parker.

Partners in the same profession, chemistry instructors Joseph Foos and Edward Jones, muse over students' chemical reactions compared to those of the text.

Humm, listen to that engine purr! Varnard Gay, modern science teacher, appears satisfied with his dry cell motor.

"One lung doesn't have much use without the rest of the body," emphasizes Miss Mildred Bunce, physiology and community health instructor, with the aid of a life size model.

Handing out Time magazines to his students so they catch up on current events is Clarence Delong, modern history teacher.

Steve Epstein's eyes follow the hand of Miss Mildred Hodges, U. S. history instructor, as she shows him a current news area.

"Upper Michigan's main industry is mining," George LeBrasseur, American history teacher, informs his class.

"Does this plan of study for our American history classes agree with yours?" Clarence Potter asks Don Coleman, both teachers of the same subject.

Past mistakes help

"What was that remark, boy?" Joking with his students makes Marvin Shebel, early European history teacher, a popular man in the classroom.

Students have the right to express their opinion, but Graham Provan, modern history teacher, sometimes finds their ideas difficult to understand.

"Yes, I agree that the construction of these maps makes them easy for our classes to understand," William Melzow, U. S. history instructor, comments to Clement Rowe, U. S. history and economic geography teacher.

to prevent future ones

History helps to provide an understanding of the past and to create a hope for the future.

Central offers a variety of history classes for the interested student. Many of them take advantage of the wide selection and spend an enlightening year pursuing the studies of ancient and medieval history, modern history or United States history.

"I know my kids are going to get valuable information from this clipping," thinks Robert Richardson, civics instructor, as he happily puts the article on the board for display.

A bit surprised but very pleased at a student's response is Miss Rosalyn Chapel, American horizons teacher.

"Well, Carolyn, your work seems to be improving." Robert Alick, U. S. history instructor, compliments Carolyn Hopkins as they check a recent assignment.

Explaining his card system for learning Latin is Phillip Laesch, Latin teacher.

Creative abilities mature

Students who learn to enjoy the finer things of life owe a debt of gratitude too large to ever repay!

Speech, language, music and art instructors devote unlimited time trying to help young people express themselves clearly, and to understand the beauty of another tongue, the feeling put into a musical composition, or the story told with a few strokes of a paint brush.

Smiling over her students' German papers is Miss Ingeborg Sanwald, German teacher.

Listening to class recitation is an everyday job of Mrs. Ordella Gould, Latin instructor.

"Yes, S. Paulo is a wonderful city," reminisces Miss Nellie Stobie, Spanish instructor, as she shows its map location to one of her classes.

Pausing for a moment's recollection of France is Raymond Percival, French instructor.

with teacher guidance

Classifying the art materials in separate drawers for more organized work in his classes is William O'Malley.

"Put more emotion into your voice," emphasizes Stephen All, radio teacher.

Busily figuring out formations for the marching band and thinking about the orchestra's next concert is Bruce Robart, director of Central's band and orchestra.

Music makes everything seem brighter! Miss Louise Doetsch, director of Girls' Glee Club, and Edward German, director of the A Cappella Choir, spend a few minutes during the busy day to enjoy each others' talent.

Students come and go but Miss Vernita Knight, journalism adviser, works till everything is done.

"Yes, I do believe that's a good idea," says Stanley White, public speaking teacher, to Miss Jacqueline Kramer, dramatic teacher, as they look over a script.

Coming in from Hamady House to chat with one of her girls is Mrs. Ruth Burke, who works for the school at the House.

Students learn of

Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home! Recognizing the truth of this statement, home economic and family living teachers endeavor to teach not only the fundamentals of the home, but also the art of living together.

"Books have valuable facts on teenage problems," stresses Mrs. Marjorie Goecker, family living teacher, as she recommends a book.

"Food classes involve reading assignments," indicates Mrs. Edna McMillan, home economics teacher, as she puts the lesson on the board.

Demonstrating a stitch on the sewing machine to a future seamstress is Miss Hazel Hoyt, home-making teacher.

Getting new ideas for menus and class work for home economics are Mrs. Louella Conklin and Miss Roberta Bautel.

health, home, and safety

Among the assets of security education and physical education classes are the benefits the students obtain in learning how to keep their bodies in top physical condition. Likewise, good health is an aid to the student enrolled in a driver training class for a good driver must be healthy.

*"Best wishes Barb
To a very nice girl"
Bob Leach*

Illustrating basic driving techniques is Stuart Willett, driver training teacher.

Pausing in the sun before resuming their classes in West Wing are Robert Leach and Tim Bograkov, personal security education instructors.

"In the future, you might be driving a car like this," Arthur Squire, driver education teacher, tells his students.

Comparing their girls' gym classes are Miss Dorothy Breda and Miss Ray Davis.

Distributing locks and assigning lockers are part of each semester's work for Joseph Dowdy and Napoleon LaVoie boys' gym teachers.

Special services

What would a school be like if there were no librarians or counselors? These people receive little publicity for their services, but the part they play in a school's function is an important one.

Without librarians, a great amount of difficulty would arise from a mere homework problem, and minus the counselors, students would be minus a schedule.

Opinions and ideas are given to Miss Rosalyn Chapel by fellow counselors Miss Ruth Reik, Miss Hazel Hoyt, Miss Mildred Bunce and Mrs. Cecil Armstrong.

*Barb,
To a very sweet girl who is full of fun. You have a wonderful personality and will go far. Best of luck in the years
to come.
Carol Hustand

Librarians, Mrs. Joanne Thompson and Mrs. Marian McCrady, busily check out books to students.

When Theodore Huizenga stopped Miss Vivian Jeand'heur to relate an amusing incident, other counselors (Ward Walworth, Marvin Shebel, Miss Hulda Gibson, and Robert Alick) gathered around to see what was happening.

provide unity

Smoothly-operated schools have workers who stay in the background, yet play a major role in all school functions.

Central's attendance directors, office workers, cooks and school nurse all contribute their special services which help to make a successful school year.

Combining their efforts to keep the school running smoothly are the members of the office staff, Mrs. Tina Christenson, Mrs. Judy Belenchia, and Mrs. Roberta Wilhelm.

William Doolittle, head of the attendance department, checks the records with his secretary Miss Alice Dues.

Mrs. Mary Lou Foxworth, nurse counselor, is always willing to lend a helping hand. Here she checks over the eye testing blanks.

Nutritious lunches are prepared by Mrs. Erdine Baker (right front) and her twelve cafeteria helpers.

Good products require good materials

In September, thirteen hundred strange but shining faces suddenly appeared in Central's halls. As sophomore students eagerly began their first semester, teachers caught a glimpse of the materials they were to work with for the next three years in hopes of developing well-rounded seniors.

It soon became apparent that the sophomore group was intelligent, one which Central could truly be proud of! Entering into the activities of their new alma mater, vim, vigor and vitality became a class trademark.

Despite their large number, the tenth graders seemed closely bound together, when in complete unity and harmony, they elected capable class officers and selected group representatives to comprise the Sophomore Board of Directors, their governing body.

Because they realized that it was not too early to begin planning for the senior year, the first year students sponsored various money-raising campaigns such as bake sales. Cooperation and well-thought-out ideas made every venture a huge success!

Weeks flew by and sophomores became aware of a strong feeling of loyalty whenever the name of Flint Central was mentioned. Forgotten were Junior high rivalries, and the young adults became the latest additions to a long line of true Centralites! Traditions of a respectable old high school made the students resolve to carry on a proud heritage.

As the year drew to a close, and the accomplishments of the tenth graders were considered, no one questioned their abilities. The sophomore class proved that they were of a sturdy material which would eventually produce a successful finished product for Central High School!

Juniors anticipate further growth and development

After struggling through the first year, the juniors began the second one with energy to spare! Finally eleventh graders, they were well established and eager to help initiate confused sophomores.

With enthusiasm and well-formed ideas, the juniors began the new year by choosing class officers. After carefully considering the facts, they went to the polls and elected Michael Saltman, president; Ernest Eichorn, vice-president; Diane Welch, secretary; and Sandy Michaud, treasurer.

Talent was abundant in the second year group as was shown in the junior play, "Meet me in St. Louis," and junior parts of the Kaleidoscope and Junior-Senior Talent Show.

The money-making minds of the junior class put their brains together and decided that car washes, pencil sales, and bake sales would be ideal ways to raise funds. They were too!

As spring rallied around, the main conversation of eleventh graders was the Junior Prom. Everyone who was privileged to attend declared afterward that the evening had been very well spent!

Now that the curtain is almost drawn on the second year, juniors, with a school spirit that never dies, look ahead to the time when the Class of 1960 will take their place as Central's leaders.

ASSEMBLY

Assembly of an automobile brings together the chassis, motor, and body. In education, we combine ACADEMICS with ACTIVITIES and ATHLETICS.

Academics

Mathematics stimulates sound reasoning

Bob Jones concentrates on solving a Geometry I problem.

Bob Stevens and Bernard Andraini look on as Judy Kolbe explains a Math problem.

Classmates of Gordon Potter look on as he explains an Algebra IV stumper.

Trig doesn't seem so hard to Will Davison and Jim Rising when Roger Boylan explains it.

A study of world religions is one of the interesting projects of world history classes.

History connects the past

In modern history classes such as this one a student, Rilla Baker, lectures to the class.

Students in civics classes find charts help to emphasize important subjects.

Busy early European history students make their outlines for the next day's discussion.

Time magazine informs history classes of world news.

with the present

Off to Canada, students of Miss Mildred Hodges' two-hour history and contemporary problems class went for the week-end of January 15!

Guests of Toronto's Northern Technical and Commercial High School students, the Centralites were privileged to attend a model United Nations Assembly in the Ontario Parliament Building and to discuss with Northern students international boundaries and waterways.

Problems of trade are considered by the members of the trade committee.

Officers of the two-hour history class lead discussions and conduct the class.

Different opinions are viewed by the members of the committee discussing disputes over United States and Canadian investments.

When Ron Shear, Brenda Brown, Ernest Nestle, Loretta Caldwell, Jerry Lucas and Carol Brissette work together, their modern science questions are answered with little difficulty.

Science classwork point

What will happen next? Patiently waiting for the outcome of Bonnie Buscher's concoction are biology students Joanne Brundle, Kay Ingram and Brenda Guy.

Chemistry experiments provide moments of anticipation for science students Betty Warner and Bill Warren.

"Now, I must carefully pour this mixture into the beaker," Katie Kennard tells Mike McNeil as she attempts to solve a chemistry problem.

Gee, this amoeba sure squirms! With the aid of a microscope, biology pupils Gary Prayton, Bill Severn, Floyd Wright and Bill Thayer observe the antics of the one-celled animals.

toward the future

Using modern equipment makes physics problems, such as Boyle's Law, easier for Sam Paraschas, Victor Milner and Tom Pintacura to understand.

Anxiously awaiting for Philip Hick to get their first French tape recording underway are Sandy Giguire, Carol Baker, and Betsy Grant.

Languages are tools for world understanding

"Who took our dog," is the dependent clause explains David Bullock to his English III class.

Having trouble, girls? Putting up a Latin poster can be difficult, Wendy Hamilton and Alice Duncan find out.

Authentic Spanish skit is fun and helpful tool! The students enjoy watching their classmates Norm Sullivan, Blair Tillinghast, Ron Stoddard, and Pam Loving perform.

Art preserves beauty

Preparing a sketch of clay and glue for a large relief painting is Hans Christenson.

Careful now! David McCallam displays patience and skill at the potter's wheel.

Artistic talent is shown in the sculpture by Benny Kendall.

After decorating their enameled jewelry Kay Anderson and Betty Connors place it in the kiln.

Faithfully practicing the alphabet are typing C students
FIRST ROW: Keith Kleinschott, Lynda Gibson, Helen Hodgins; SECOND ROW: Juanita Milks and Glenda McCain.

Students learn

To prepare students for the future is the goal of the commercial and industrial art courses at Central.

By taking such classes as typing, shorthand, print shop, and machine shop, young adults develop technical skills that are used in both the industrial and business worlds.

It's Nancy Meadow's turn to take shorthand notes as her partner Annette Settlemoir dictates.

Discovering that concentration is essential in balancing bookkeeping ledgers, Cris Dethloff (front) and Angeline Hickey ignore all distractions.

Office practice students Sandy Blaine and Pat Hammond realize the importance of accuracy when working with business machines.

of business and industry

Working with a drill press in machine shop affords Bill Book excellent training for future work.

Look, not one mistake! Peggy Taylor and Ken Qualls admire their lettering ability in print shop.

Draftsmen Lynn Mills, Lynn Black, and David Danaweau, find precision instruments a necessity.

No, a complete overhaul isn't necessary, but Ken Materia, and Jim Pruett keep busy making adjustments.

Security education students learn about smoking with the aid of a cross-section of a cigarette.

Running the track in the boys' gym classes keeps muscles limber.

Girls of the gym class try the hula hoop and enjoy watching their classmates perform.

Varied classes brighten

Driver training students board the bus to go to the new range.

Homemaking students find that preparing Christmas cookies brings out their creative talent.

the school semester

How to transfer a piece of cloth into an attractive garment is learned by sewing classes.

Music adds zest to activities

Football games are exciting, but win or lose, Central's marching band is there to cheer the team on!

As the band members march out onto the field at the beginning of each game and during half-time, hearts warm and school spirits reach their highest peak. Loyalty and pride are felt by all when the band goes through intricate formations such as spelling out TEAM, and exhibits the skill they have obtained by long hours of tedious drilling.

High-stepping drum majors, Cliff Taylor and Charles Cwieka, lead the band.

Providing enjoyment for many people are members of the Girls' Glee Club. With performances for varied audiences, the girls share their beautiful singing voices with others.

During the course of the school year, the Glee Club participated in the City and State Festival, the Music Benefit Show, the Spring Concert and the Kaleidoscope. Prominent local clubs also had the privilege of hearing the girls sing.

In the spring, to wind up a busy year, the Glee Club had their annual reunion where present and past members got together to talk over old times.

from deep within

This year, the Boys' Glee Club participated in the Christmas Assembly by singing a few well-known carols. They also took part in the District Vocal Festival at Lakeville, Michigan, Music Assemblies and the Spring Concert.

That the love of singing is favored no more by female than by male is clearly indicated by the Boys' Glee Club.

Although the girls usually sing way above the boys, the audience acceptance is pretty much the same.

When Edward German, instructor of the A Cappella Choir, gives the signal, voices rise in perfect harmony.

Composed of Central students who have outstanding singing voices, the A Cappella provides many types of audiences pleasant memories of beautiful music.

Because they are such a talented group, the members of the A Cappella were requested to perform on many occasions. Besides entertaining at school functions, they also participated in the MEA-NEA Banquet at the IMA Auditorium, the Thanksgiving Service at the First Baptist Church and an assembly at Zimmerman Junior High School.

heart feel gay

The Madrigal Singers, composed of members of the choir, delight in putting on performances for varied audiences. The main purpose of the group is to entertain others and spread pleasure with their singing ability.

Performing in the Solo and Ensemble Festival is something looked forward to by all members of the Girls' Ensemble. Being a smaller group of the Glee Club, they also participate in the Kaleidoscope, Music Benefit Show and Spring Musicale.

GIRLS' ENSEMBLE FIRST ROW: Alfild Bugge, Sheron Talbot, Carolyn Bloomer, Kathleen Plasha, Carol Magee, Nancy Short, Janet

Prescreening sports pictures are co-editors Pat Montgomery and Nancy Stein (standing) while Ruth Ann Miller and Lynda Salisbury, (co-editors of senior section, introduction and division pages), check senior pictures.

Envisioning the book as a whole are Marilyn Kuperus, editor-in-chief who assigns the pages and deadlines, and Marilyn Horvath who edits all the copy.

"Has this picture been checked in yet?" Penny Coyne (standing) activities assistant, asks Mary Spears, photography editor, while Judy Curtis, copy assistant, writes a cut line for Sue Fitzgerald, activities editor.

Journalists work

With little thought of recognition, staff members of the Prospectus work together in harmony from September to May.

From deadline to deadline, the importance and responsibility of their separate duties remain deeply embedded in the minds of those who endeavor to produce for Central students an accurate and descriptive account of the year's events.

Carolyn Hopkins, faculty and academics assistant, looks over finished pages as Joanne Derck, general assistant and Roberta Pritchard, assistant, help Elizabeth Hopkins, section editor, to complete additional pages.

Material for an article is gathered by Kay Ingram during an interview with Howard Auer, assistant principal.

Reporters Doug Notman, Vicki Schlegel, Jim Harris and Jan Ross busily type articles due for an Arrow Head deadline.

till the job is done

Hard work and complete co-operation is the secret of Central's productive Arrow Head staff.

Reporters, typists and editors function together like a perfectly-oiled piece of machinery. By taking paper, pencils, ideas, news and adding great quantities of time and energy, the journalists come up with a bi-weekly, newsy product.

"What do you think of this?" asks Jewell McMillin as she shows an article she has written to Lynda Gibson, editor-in-chief.

Kathleen Allen, managing editor, accepts copy from Dick Rudd, reporter.

Finding the right word for a certain size headline is a problem as reporters Beverly Culp, Mike Saltman, Jane Bullwinkle and John Tinder find out.

Maureen Barclay, Sharon Williams, Beth Bigler and Larry Sheldon, the Arrow Head editorial board, industriously work on page make-ups.

Studying their parts for a future play in drama class are Sandy Harris and Allan Baker.

"And that's the way it went," Ron McIntyre tells the class as he winds up a speech.

Classes provide

At Central, the art of speaking is taught in public speaking, spring speech and drama classes.

By giving various types of speeches and skits in the presence of others, the public speaking classes learn to express themselves with the greatest of ease.

Spring speech is offered the second semester, and its primary purpose is to prepare talented students for the Saginaw Valley Speech Contests.

Drama, a class especially for students who have a desire to act, concentrates mainly on the presentation of skits and plays.

Spring speech students Jim Wilcox and Doug Harbo rehearse their orations for a coming contest.

practice in speaking

Students who enjoy working with radio equipment and doing broadcasting work find Central's radio class very profitable.

Under the direction of Stephen All, the students work on radio scripts for future use of W. F. B. E.

Even though the radio class is separated from the main building, being in the radio tower, it is considered an important part of Central's academic schedule.

Sound effects men Chuck Elk and Kent Swanson keep on their toes during all broadcasts.

While Marsha Mueller calls the minutes off, Richard Leineke prepares to go on the air.

Judy Bryan, Pat Coscia and Bill Stratton listen to recordings to be used in future broadcasts.

Cadet teachers profit from experience

Students whose goal is a teaching career have unlimited opportunities to test their capabilities by enrolling in the accredited cadet teachers' program.

During the week, the cadet teachers spend actual time in the classrooms of various schools assisting the teacher in whatever way needed. This practical experience assists them in determining whether they have the qualities necessary for successful teachers.

Fridays are reserved as discussion days for cadet teachers, providing them with an opportunity to discuss experiences of the past week.

Debaters argue, discuss, and convince

An individual who wants to learn how to successfully put his point across to others should find debate class very beneficial.

Besides the fun of being on an affirmative or negative team and matching wits and knowledge against other students, the debater develops his speaking skill to the point where he is able to express himself with confidence and ease.

Before beginning their debate, Linda Notman, Barbara Baker, David Joseph, and Jerry Weinstein compare notes.

"Hm-m, that might be a strong issue to bring out," considers Bonnie Taylor as Merrily Gorne, Larry Mawhinney, Leslie Gutterman, Diane Nadell, and Joanne Puffer observe.

Activities

Students eagerly usher in the new school year

Another school year begins! Fresh enthusiasm bursts forth as students rush through Central's doors. When classes resume, student activities begin to function.

Spirits rise as club pledging gets in full swing! Even though it is humiliating for a sophomore girl to have to wait on a senior boy, everyone agrees it's all in the fun of initiation week.

Suddenly the halls come alive! As class election posters go up, each floor takes on a bright look. Heads are seen turning in every direction as the students attempt to see everything.

During the busy autumn days, summer vacation is forgotten. School, with its activities, becomes the main interest of young people. Another happy year at Central is finally underway.

Rushing forward to greet their friends after a long day at school are Judy Moehring, Dale Lucas, and Shirley Elmes.

Enjoying the prompt attention that he gets during pledge week from Karen Coggins and Barbara Hetchler is Keith Richardson.

No, they're not stuck up! It's campaign time again and an assortment of posters captures the interest of all Centralites.

If the expression on the face of Art Yeotis is any indication, he doesn't mind having his make-up applied by the smiling Ann Dodd.

Next, Lee Burley gives final touches to the make-up of Ken Williams while Art gives his nod of approval.

Production reaches full peak

One of the most successful plays of the year was "Meet Me in St. Louis," a delightful comedy presented by the Junior Class.

Using the scenery and dress characteristic of the 1900's, the juniors acted out the hilarious adventures of a heart-warming family named Smith.

College and Career Day enabled students to attend discussions and lectures by representatives from leading colleges and universities, the armed forces, and various occupations.

At the Career Carnival, several vocational booths were displayed, and pamphlets containing helpful information were distributed.

Listening with intent interest to a Hillsdale College representative are Barb Baxter, Ruth Shue, Tom Taylor, Sue Hemingway, Linda Olson, and Doug MacDonald.

Interested in the restaurant business? This exhibit, at the Career Carnival, was observed by many Central students.

Beauty captivates the student body

Being queen brings tears of joy from Lynda Salisbury who is surrounded by Lynda Gibson, Janet Schneider, Bonnie Gangraw, Karolatta Beauchamp, Judy Rech, and Sue Brockway

A rapturous and excited Lynda Salisbury presided over Central's first homecoming festivities; a victorious football game was followed by a couple dance in the gym.

Lynda was elected by student vote from the Senior Class, as were her attendants, Janet Schneider and Lynda Gibson.

Juniors chose Bonnie Gangraw and Karolatta Beauchamp, and sophomore representatives were Judy Rech and Sue Brockway.

Lynda waves gaily to an admiring crowd!

Standing in a queenly pose, Lynda proudly holds her bouquet of roses presented her on behalf of the student body by Earl Holloway, Student Council president.

The refreshment table at the Homecoming Dance seems to be a very popular place.

Oui, mademoiselle! French students Carrie Sue Grant, Dottie Shue, Pat Turlay and Judy Hewitt listen to their teacher, Sue Parsell, as they dance in the ballet act of the Kaleidoscope.

Presiding over the Kaleidoscope as Master and Mistress of Ceremonies are Keith Richardson and Linda Lee Clark.

"Hang down your head Tom Dooley," yell Bob Southwell and Ron Watson while Steve Miller and Gene Owens pay close attention.

Activities evoke

Flint's new public library inspired the theme for Central High School's 33rd annual Kaleidoscope, "Book Revue" in which 350 Central students participated.

Keith Richardson and Linda Lee Clark were Master and Mistress of Ceremonies while Eugene Bullock took the part of Dr. I. Ama Bookworm.

Music was under the direction of Miss Louise Doetsch, Edward German and Bruce H. Robart. Miss Jacqueline Kramer was in charge of productions and Moreen Leibov was the student director.

Tales of India come alive as Pam Loving does an interpretive dance of that country.

Centralites become television stars! Being interviewed on Flint's new television station WJRT are Bruce Robart, director of Central's orchestra and band, and Paul Tremewan, Central's Indian.

creative talent

School-sponsored activities are brought into the homes of many when students appear on Flint's new television station, channel 12. Teen Canteen and Teen Traffic Court are among the programs in which teenagers are invited to participate.

Radio station WFBE, under the direction of high school students, gives young people a responsibility that enables them to receive valuable experience.

Central's football team retained the support of all as senior girls formed a chorus line to cheer the team on at the Saginaw and Pontiac games.

Radio class members diligently broadcast a football game over WFBE. Taking part are Bill Casner, Jerry Lemuel, Dick Leineke and Stephen All, sponsor.

Giving a rousing kick to cheer the team on are senior girls Sue Sparks, Sue Brown, Elizabeth Hopkins, Sandy Sines, Sue Fitzgerald, Diane Watters, Bette Lueck, Nancy Parsell, Lynda Salisbury, Ruth Shue, Joanne Davison, Judy Hodson, Kay Morris and Pat Turley.

Tom Fullenwider's selling method seems to be very effective as Carol Schneider purchases a Thanksgiving football program while Anne McNeven and Rilla Baker look on.

A spirited ovation was received by Central's team at the Thanksgiving pep assembly.

Here comes the team! An uproar rises from the stands as the football team enters the field led by the cheerleaders.

Holiday vacations bring

Thanksgiving time is royally accepted by Central students! Signs fill the halls, and the slogan "City, Valley, State in '58" seems to be on the tongue of everyone. Shakers, pennants and Thanksgiving programs are sold throughout the school.

The day before the game red and black dominates the classrooms, and enthusiasm is shown during the Thanksgiving pep assembly at Ballenger Field House.

On Turkey Day, Central's cheering section is packed with loyal supporters who showed up to cheer their team on to a brilliant victory!

Central's Block F Section goes into action portraying a teepee.

unlimited joy

Strains of "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas" drift across Central's snow-covered campus as the year turns toward the Christmas holidays.

Central joined in the festivities this year by broadcasting Christmas music from the tower. Even the halls put on a dress of red and green to celebrate the occasion.

"The North Pole Fantasy" was the appropriate name given to the Christmas dance held at Ballenger Field House. School assemblies also added to the splendor of the season.

The A Cappella Choir joins in a rousing chorus during the annual Christmas assembly.

Jane Draper of the U.S. history and contemporary problems class presents roses to Miss Mary Francis Mallon, the Canadian teacher.

and excitement prevail

Adding cheery notes to the snowy month of January were various school activities.

Senior plans included the Senior Couple Dance. Appropriately called "Memories," it undoubtedly provided many for the students who were fortunate enough to attend.

Pupils of Miss Mildred Hodges' two-hour history class traveled to Canada where they spent an entertaining and educational week-end as guests of Canadian students. On return, they brought home a promise of the Canadian students to visit Flint in March.

For the benefit of the entire body, Dr. Glen Cunningham, former track star, spoke on the evils of alcohol. His speech proved to be not only beneficial but also interesting to listen to.

Dr. Glen Cunningham speaks to Central students on the evils of alcohol.

A poem written by Nancy Parsell proved to be an effective decoration for the Senior Couple Dance.

Sisters Sharon and Bette Lueck find time for a snack before preceding with their studies.

through the winter months

Cold weather and more snow ushered in the month of February, but exciting activities made the time anything but dull!

The new semester began, and students energetically set to work to achieve teachers' praises through good grades. Diligent cramming for the first test of the semester was a common sight in the homes of Central students.

Valentine's Day was celebrated with a Student Council dance, "The Bow and Arrow Bounce." Couples attending were put in the Valentine mood with music provided by Paul Hocking's Band.

"Four more inches of snow fell last night" was a common phrase throughout the city, and students found more than enough chances to develop their muscles through snow shoveling and pushing stuck cars.

Heedless of others, Sue Coltharp and Larry Sheldon dance on at the Valentine Dance.

Need a push? Doug MacArthur, Jim Sines and Dave Crawford seem well qualified for the job.

Students congregate outside as the weather turns warmer.

Senior Talent Show directors Arlene Mittleman and Sharon Williams listen closely to Cassius Smith's audition.

Senior production manager Doreen Bennett and Junior directors Maureen Leibov and Art Yeotis discuss an idea for the show.

Talent and fun blossom

March winds and April showers bring forth talent, work and fun. Competition is keen during the spring as the juniors and seniors assemble their best talent to produce the annual Junior-Senior Talent Show. Talent, determination and co-operation are all combined to make a long-remembered presentation.

Anne MacNeven and Jim Nelson

With the arrival of spring

Many weeks of preparation and practice are put to a test with the performance of "Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" presented by the senior class.

Pizza seems to be a favorite among Centralites all through the year and spring is no exception. Local pizza houses are always crowded following school activities.

"My, but I'm a fine page," exclaims Alla Strachow to Bob Southwell and Lindalee Clark as she rehearses for the senior play, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

Conversation while waiting for their pizza.

Pizza seems to be a favorite among junior girls as they give their re-order to the waitress.

Activities flourish as the end draws near

One of the big events of spring is voting for Student Council officers.

Senor Melvin Robinson demonstrates the Mexican Hat Dance to members of the Spanish Club, Bob Huff, Carolyn Collister, Pat Turley, and Arlene Mittleman at the annual Foreign Language Banquet.

Martian maids appear as Jean Paul, Diane Welch, Janet Dullinger, Jane Taylor and Ann Paul practice for the swim show.

German Club members — Jim Heusel, Peggy Dachzer, Esther Lutz and Dick Baske serve foreign food at the banquet.

Looking over the songs composed by the journalism classes for their banquet are (seated) Marilyn Kuperus, Miss Vernita Knight (adviser), Lynda Gibson (standing), Pat Montgomery, Lynda Salisbury, Sue Fitzgerald, Kay Ingram, Janice Ross, and Kathy Allen.

Banquets, trips, elections, talent and graduation helped to round out spring days as students participated in a rush of activities to end the school year.

Student Council elections were eagerly anticipated as students voted for their favorite candidates. Enthusiasm also prevailed when the synchronized swimming class presented their annual swim show.

German, French and Spanish Clubs united for their last meeting and held a gala language banquet. Foreign food was served and entertainment was provided by each club.

Near the close of the year, the journalism department took a trip to Ann Arbor where problems of the school newspaper and year-book were discussed with experts. At the final activity, the journalism banquet hosted by the Business staff, awards were presented to all three groups and new editors were announced.

Finally to climax the year's events, seniors donned their caps and gowns for the most memorable experience—graduation.

Janice Ross, Kay Ingram, Beverly Culp and Joanne Derck board the bus to Ann Arbor for the annual Michigan Interscholastic Press Association.

How do I look? Seniors Joanne Davison, Barbara Baxter, Pat Hammond, Beverly Newcombe, and Doreen Bennett proudly display their caps and gowns as the school year comes to a close.

Making plans for this year's welfare program is Verner Stillner as Cynthia Gearhart and Pam Wood look on.

They build

The Student Council, governing body of Central High School, is headed by Earl Holloway, president; Arthur Yeotis, vice-president; Judy Moehring, secretary; and Barbara Baker, treasurer.

The council, composed of representatives from each group, is supervised by officers elected the previous year by the entire student body.

Earl Holloway, president of the Student Council discusses next week's meeting with Barbara Baker, treasurer; Art Yeotis, vice-president; and Judy Moehring, secretary.

broad smile to his fellow Council members.

"Crepe paper will decorate the ceiling," explains Sherry Bennett, activities chairman, to Gloria Reid, Tom Lyon, Dotty Shue and Jan Williston.

for a purpose

Meeting weekly, the representatives discuss various problems concerning the welfare of the school. Giving the council careful guidance are Miss Mabel Pinel, dean of girls, and Stanley Broome, dean of boys.

The Student Council provides students with an opportunity to express their ideas and voice their opinions.

Royalty 'n Rhythm seems to be a favorite with Dawn Watters' Social Committee, Carol Waghorn, Mike Saltman, Sue Hemingway, Ron Hartman, Chuck Cweika, and Sandy Sines, as they choose a name for the Homecoming dance.

ALPHA SIGMA EPSILON: (seated) Richard Monroe, Earl Holloway, Philip Vercoe (principal), Robert Barton, Michael Saltman; (standing) Arthur Yoetis, Michael Hamp, Arthur Shantz.

Students with leadership qualities, dependability and willingness to work play an important part in our school. The Commanderins, sponsored by Miss Mabel Pinel, dean of girls, and Alpha Sigma Epsilon, sponsored by Philip H. Vercoe, principal, are composed of such pupils.

Membership in the Commanderins is awarded to outstanding girls in the upper third of their class holding class or Student Union offices or heading one of Central's publications. Members of Alpha Sigma Epsilon are chosen in the same fashion. These two societies, mainly honorary, plan an annual picnic at the close of the year.

Honor results from perseverance

meier, Sharon Williams, Joan Puffer, Marilyn Calkins, Nancy Monore, Connie Cheek, Diane Burns, Nancy Meadows, Elizabeth Hopkins, Marilyn Kuperus, Kathleen Allen.

(Third Row) Jim Nelson, Larry Sheldon, David Joseph, Gerald Schaefer, Vernor Milner, Dwight Mathews, Larry Pacernick, Earl Hollway, Jerry Weinstein, Carrie Sue Grant, Sue Parsell, Karen Johnson, Blye Menkemeller, Linda Notman, Pat Turley, Mimi Livingston.

With a reputation as being one of the most outstanding educational organizations in the country, the National Honor Society holds an important position in Central's school affairs.

Membership in the club is open to students who maintain a 3.5 scholastic average during the sophomore and junior year, who have a superior citizenship rating, and who are especially recommended to Miss Lillian Weller for their promising abilities.

A special project of the Honor Society is a tutoring service offered to students who need additional help with their school work. The purpose of this program is to increase the grade average of Central students.

Making plans for their tutoring program are the officers of National Honor Society: Verner Stillner, president; Mary Martha Skaff, secretary; Miss Lillian Weller, sponsor; Richard Baske, vice-president; and Carolyn Collister, treasurer.

Intent interest from Relique Club members is received by Jack Howe, sponsor. Members of the club are Ann Paul, Adolph Sbihli, Nancy Stein, Bette Lueck, David Dubuque, Susan

Clubs promote

Starting its second successful year as of Central's special clubs is the Reliques. The main interest of the club is history, and through their meetings members try to promote history, both ancient and current happenings.

Monthly meetings are held at members' homes, and activities include movies and speakers from foreign countries.

"To be or not to be," is a familiar sound drifting through the door of Room 317 every Friday night as the Shakespeare Club holds its weekly meeting.

The club is under the direction of Miss Grace Field, English literature instructor. Reviving and acting out Shakespearean play is the primary interest of members.

lene Mittleman, Karen Jaeger, Iva Smith, THIRD ROW: Richard Wruble, Frances Jenkins, Dennis Wruble, John Sterner and Miss Grace Fields, sponsor.

Cultural attainment

Mu Alpha Chi, Central's art club was organized for students who enjoy working with the many phases of art.

Club projects which are of service to the entire student body are the arrangements of the display cases, and the murals and posters which often decorate the halls.

Chess Club is composed of an active group of students who enjoy relaxing after a long day of school by participating in the game.

Playing a tournament with Northern is something which all Chess Club members look forward to. Their teams also compete for positions.

CHESS CLUB: Julie Greenridge, Bob Rutter, Karen Jaeger, Gene Owens, Charles Sitts, Carl Carlson,

Drama societies work

BELLE MASQUE: ROW ONE: Sue Mestrezat, Sue Cunningham, Byron Childress, Ellen Brockman, Sue Hanna, Judy Popejoy, Patricia McBride. ROW TWO: Madge Walton, Dee Weir, Sara Watson, Sally Jo Saller, Ann Langley, Carolyn Lee Miller, Ed Graham, Amy Hoeffgen, Judy Myers, Sue Parsell, Alfhild Bugge, Susie Dolan, Nancy Short, Glenda McCain, Sallie Marcoux, Janet Forgie. ROW THREE: Vicki Schlegel, Jane Goddard, Joanne Johnson, Agneta Kosh, Pat Siple, Glenn Smith (treasurer), Carl

Melvin Robinson, student director of the Belle Masque play, supervises as Bill Casner and Nancy Short rehearse their lines.

Ernest Cole, Belle Masque sponsor, has no small task on his hands when seventy-five members of the active Belle Masque Drama Society hold their meeting every other Thursday.

This year members brought to life on Central's stage the musical version of "Old-Fashioned Girl." This annual production is but one of the activities of the society. Field trips and guest speakers also highlight their busy schedule.

Students with theater interests have a fine opportunity to display their talent with membership in Belle Masque.

or cultural growth

Attic Player officers Lynda Salisbury (president), Eugene Bullock (vice-president), Mary French (secretary), and Sandy Blaine (treasurer) discuss plans for their future play.

Dramatizing a scene from The Seven Sisters are Attic Player members Jill Comins, Dennis Stevenson, Mike Hamp, Judy Warner and Cathy Overholt.

To become a member of Attic Players' Drama Society, sponsored by Miss Jacqueline Kramer, is considered to be a great honor to students interested in acting.

After passing a tryout test, hopeful pledges excitedly wait to be notified if they have been accepted. For those who are, an informal initiation is on the agenda followed by the formal initiation banquet in the spring. And then, the thrill of contributing special talents to the presentation of a successful play begins!

Club gatherings encourage

One of Central's larger organizations is the Latin Club. The club is for students who are taking Latin and are interested in knowing more about the lives of the people in ancient Rome.

The club's biggest event is the Latin Banquet. Members who attend are dressed in togas and are seated on the floor at low tables. Food is then served to them in the regular Roman fashion.

At Christmas, club members show their thoughtfulness by providing food baskets for needy families.

foreign language discussions

German Club officers Mike Hoffman (vice-president), Verner Stillner (president), and Sharon Vessells (secretary) look over an agenda for a coming meeting.

German Club, sponsored by Miss Ingeborg Sanwald, generally meets twice a month.

Since there are some German students at Central, the Club can learn of German culture and customs first hand. Old German newsreels are shown as entertainment for the students.

Membership in the Club is open to any Centralite who is a student of German.

French Club officers: Diane Welch, president; Steve Van Voohis, vice-president; Raymond Percival, sponsor; Lynda Salisbury, secretary; and Lynda Gibson, treasurer; plan the year's program.

Festive mood

Le Cercle Francais, the French Club, is strictly for people who understand the language, for all of the meetings are conducted in French.

Members gain further knowledge of life in France by listening to guest speakers, watching slides and movies and attending a French banquet which gives them an occasion to eat and dress like the typical French man or woman.

captures imaginations

Accenting the Club Espanol are the colorful customs and the culture of the Spanish people.

Through movies, slides and speakers, members gain an appreciation of Spanish life and its interesting folklore. Adding life to the club program are Spanish music, dancing and games.

The Club Espanol which is open to all Spanish students is under the sponsorship of la Senorita Nellie Stobie.

Highlighting the club's activities this year were a Spanish banquet complete with an assortment of spicy foods and entertainment which was provided by the club pledges.

Serving plate dinners to Kathleen Callahan, Sandy Lewis and Martha Carrell are Karen Lewis, Carol Dent and Felipa Velasques of the International Institute.

Finding the tortillas extremely tasty are Ray Bussler, Les Conrad, Alla Strachow, Carolyn Collister, Pat Turley, Odette Sardy, Christie Clifford, Barb Ross, Fran Sherwin, Scott Seeley and Miss Nellie Stobie, sponsor.

"Here's what we want!" chorus two Biology Club pledges as they spot some green algae in the midst of Gilkey Creek.

"Ugh!" screams the blindfolded Bonnie Easter as she is handed a piece of raw liver.

Students show

Budding scientists begin to bloom in Central's science clubs! These organizations give interested students an opportunity to explore the old and new mysteries of life.

Under the direction of Edward Brigham, the Biology Club features dissecting and field trips as top attractions.

Members of the Khem Club enjoy solving scientific and mathematical problems along with creating Science Fair projects.

Combined with the Jets or Junior Engineering Technical Society this year the Khem Club has Joseph Foos as sponsor.

Covering pledges with flour is all part of the job to Dianne Easter who here performs her duty on the uncomplaining Barbara Gellis.

One, two, three, go! Biology Club hopeful, Clarene Cranick, hurriedly crawls down the hall.

unbounded vigor

To promote participation in established clubs is the purpose of the Thespians, Central's honorary drama society. Belonging to the Thespians is the goal of all students interested in dramatics.

Membership in the club is earned according to a point system based on various phases involved in the dramatic production.

Fluent self-expression and the art of public speaking are two subjects members of the Forensic Club explore.

Humorous debates, public address announcements, and parties make up a few of the club's activities. Members receive careful guidance and instruction from Stanley White, speech instructor.

THESPIANS: Amy Hoeffgen, Sandy Sines, Jim Mattson, Mary Totten, Tamara Transue, Pam Wood, Carren Thomas, Jerry Mawhinney, Lynda Salisbury, Melvin Robinson (secretary), Linda Lee Clark (treasurer), Arlene Mittleman (president).

Stanley White, sponsor, explains debating rules to Forensic Club members. FIRST ROW: Jerry Weinstein, Linda Notman (vice-president), Barbara Baker (president), Dave Joseph, Joan Puffer. SECOND

Future careers

Future Nurses, sponsored by Miss Cornelia Van Doorn, offers its members a preview into the field of nursing by providing them with actual work experience in the hospitals and giving them an opportunity to listen to doctors and nurses speak of the medical profession.

The girls work for three hours a week in hospitals performing helpful duties such as feeding babies, carrying trays to patients and taking care of sick children.

By watching trained nurses in action, the students find out if they are suited for, and if they would actually enjoy, the profession of nursing.

are in the making

For those who wish to become acquainted with proper business procedures, Central's Business Club helps to meet the desire.

As a part of their monthly meetings, Mrs. Julie Grotts, club sponsor, engages guest speakers such as secretaries, office employers and personnel directors to acquaint the girls with what is expected of office employees. Present members also welcome back graduated former members to relate their experiences in the business world.

Business Club's schedule is checked by Suzanne Laliberte, Jan Schneider, Pat Hammond, Mrs. Julia Grotts (sponsor), Dorothy Gordon, Gail Booth and Jeanette Schaar.

Business Club officers Lottie Washington (historian), Karen Mead (president), Lonnie Spencer (treasurer), Joy Stone (secretary), and Christel Dethloff (vice-president) chat together before going to class.

They communicate

Doug Mayville, president of the Red Cross, explains the poster campaign to Kay Winkler (seated), Dave Prevost, Marilyn Kuperus, Dick James, Arlene Richardson and Gayle Munns.

Working hard at the task of distributing international good will is the Junior Red Cross Chapter of Flint.

Central's branch is under the direction of Miss Rosalynn Chapel. Among the activities this council supports are the sending to Europe of an international school chest, an album depicting the lives of American teenagers, and the presentation of an international music and art program.

Each summer, Red Cross members look forward to a camp held for their benefit. The primary purpose of the camp is to teach members about the Universal Council, but entertainment and sports are also on the agenda.

Through its service, the Red Cross hopes to promote world friendship and to better community service.

Ray Ann Withey, treasurer; Eugene Bullock, vice-president; Miss Rosalynn Chapel, sponsor; and Judy Rolf, secretary, sort out Red Cross cards and pins to distribute to groups.

With contributions of Central students, an international school chest is sent to foreign countries.

"Would you like to buy an ad?" This is a familiar sentence to members of the business staff who handle newspaper finances.

Meeting monthly, the club solicits ads from local merchants so as to make the publication of the Arrow Head possible. This also enables members to learn valuable on-the-job business procedures.

Miss Hazel DeHart, the club sponsor, adds variety to the meetings by engaging various speakers in the business profession. All members look forward to the Press Banquet in the spring which they are privileged to attend.

Victory needs practice plus

Even though tired and weary, our team found energy to cheer as loud as the rest of the Centralites.

A good football team is determined not by victories, but by the continued encouraging support of spectators and coaches. Centralites are fortunate in having a capable and inspiring leader, Bill Doolittle, as head coach of their Indians.

Also contributing special abilities are Marvin Shebel, assistant coach; James Whitaker, backfield coach; Bob Leach, line coach; Kenneth Green, trainer; and Homer Parker, who has charge of equipment and managers.

With the cooperation of Tribe leaders, cheerleaders, and student body, our school spirit is not to be excelled! Considering all these advantages, Central students anticipated a most promising football season.

Tribe gridgers opened their 1958-59 football season by handing a 25-19 defeat to the ex-State Champions, Midland High School. Despite being tabbed underdogs, a greatly improved and highly-inspired Tribe came out victorious.

Halfbacks Art Thrash and Ron Watkins combined talents for an impressive one-two punch against Midland defense. The well-balanced defense of the Indians forced the Chemics to punt four times, fumble three times, and lose one pass by interception.

Tribe eleven

After defeating Ann Arbor, 32-7, Central's gridgers went on to deadlock undefeated Bay City, 13-13, and romped over Alpena, 64-0. Since both teams were undefeated, the Bay City-Central game was a contest between Michigan's number one and two teams, respectively.

With Jerry Jellis leading the way, the Indians overcame an early 6-0 deficit on a 30-yard pass from Jellis to Halfback Art Thrash. Central then took the lead on a masterful 89-yard return of the second-half kickoff by Ron Watkins.

Bay City came back to the game once more, but, with 1:22 minutes remaining, the Tribe eleven had the last scoring opportunity. However, with third down on the Bay City nine, the big Wolf line broke through to throw Carl Jackson for a 17-yard loss and stop the drive as time ran out.

Alpena never had a chance as Tribe ball-carriers scored and passed for one touchdown. Six different players scored as Central rolled up their biggest score in twenty-five years.

remain undefeated

Coach Doolittle's Indians, looking toward Northern on Thanksgiving Day, continued to win by impressive margins as they clipped Saginaw 53-0 after beating Arthur Hill 33-13. The Tribe then downed Pontiac at Pontiac's home field, 38-0, in their final game before the annual Turkey Day affair.

Art Thrash, Ron Watkins and Bert Szabo scored seven touchdowns between them to lead the Saginaw romp. Central completely dominated the game, reaching 445 yards rushing and 101 passing. In beating Pontiac, the Tribe had gone eight games without a defeat in the bid for their first unbeaten season since 1947. One unusual play gave the Tribe a TD. Pontiac attempted to punt, but guard John Bertrum blocked it and tackle Ken Bertrum blocked it and tackle Ken Hardin picked up the loose ball to run into the end zone.

In handing Northern the worst defeat in the thirty-one years' history of the Thanksgiving Day rivalry, Central's gridgers copped the city crown, a share in the Saginaw Valley title, and recognition as the state's number one football team.

Six Indians scored as the Tribe easily over-powered a good Viking club, 51-0. Central scored twice in the first quarter on runs of 32 and 38 yards by all-state halfback, Ron Watkins. The Tribe turned the game into a rout in the second quarter, scoring three times, and they added one touchdown in the third and two in the fourth quarter.

Tribe dominance of the games was illustrated by their rushing and first down totals. Central compiled 402 yards rushing to a meager 47 for Northern. The Vikings were able to collect but six first downs (their first coming in the third quarter) to Central's 21. Central completed four passes for 106 yards while Northern completed five for only 32 yards.

Junior Varsity complete s impressive season

With a record of five wins and two losses, the Junior Varsity team came to the end of a successful season.

Although having to bow to Northern 13-20 in their opening game, the tribesmen came back with a rebound and were victorious over Bay City Central 34-20 and Midland 19-0. A 13-21 defeat by Arthur Hill in the first clash was revenged with a 26-7 victory over the second meet.

Evidently the last two games were played with renewed invigoration as Central took all honors with a score of 26-0 against Saginaw and 38-0 against Pontiac.

This year, George Skaff, a quarterback, and Paul Neely, a left-halfback, were chosen by the rest of the squad as the team's two most valuable players.

Last minute instructions are given by Francis Smith preceding the all-important city meet.

The 1958 Cross Country Squad proved its prowess by copping the City, Valley, and State titles last fall.

Sparked by such outstanding varsity runners as George Friedreichsen, Bill Milum, and Gary Crenshaw, the Harriers remained undefeated.

The Cindermen paced their way to the Saginaw Valley Championship with the final totals reading: Flint Central 23, Pontiac 67, Arthur Hill 90.

The Harriers came out victorious in the state finals with a score of 114. Close behind the Tribemen was Birmingham with 129 and Lincoln Park with 175.

Coach Varnard Gay was indeed proud of his squad this year, and he anxiously looks forward to a most promising season next year!

Bill Milum leads the race against Northern thus aiding Central to obtain a perfect score (15-46) for the City title.

..... on to victory!

Despite defeats at the hands of Pontiac (69-56) and Northern (54-49) in valley contests, coach Joe Dowdy's Indian Cagers rated high in Valley standings with a 2-2 record.

Between these defeats the tribe won over Midland (60-38) and came back to win over Saginaw (80-52).

Although the defeat to Northern was disappointing, center Duane Bates sparked a near comeback by sinking 12 late points, establishing his status as regular center, with Keith Richardson moving to forward.

Coach Dowdy juggled his lineup after the Pontiac defeat by calling Jerry Lucas up from the JV squad to become a regular.

Despite careful guarding by the Midland Chemics, Keith Richardson, center, helped the Tribe obtain a victory 60-38.

Shouts of enthusiasm by Central fans were a result of this play by Dale Lucas (23) in the closing minutes of the Central-Northern clash.

Cagers are

Victories over Bay City Central and Pontiac put Central's cage team in a position to take the lead in the Saginaw Valley before being downed by Northern in a thriller 69-65.

In beating Pontiac in a 3:00 overtime period, the Tribe handed the Chiefs their first defeat of the year. Guard Dale Lucas sank two free throws to tie the score 47-47 at the end of regulation play. Brother Jerry Lucas then swished two free throws in the final 12 seconds of overtime to provide the margin of victory 53-52. The Lucas brothers scored 27 points between them with Jerry hitting 14 to lead the victory, Central's tenth straight home triumph.

Keith Richardson and Duane Bates each contributed 10 points as the Indians showed their fighting spirit. The jubilant crowd carried Coach Joe Dowdy off the court on their shoulders after the game.

Although the margin of victory (63-51) was 27 large, the Tribe encountered a tough Bay City squad. The Redskins hit 26 out of 65 field goal attempts for a .400 average.

Previous to the Northern game, the Indians had a .427 average. The Tribe's average was lowered after they lost a see-saw battle. Bates scored 18 points to lead the Central scoring.

In a thrilling three-minute overtime victory 53-52, Keith Richardson, 20, attempts a basket as Pontiac Chiefs, Robert Robaja 21, John Bandy 11, and William Hayward 41, move in to rebound.

regional class A champions

After losing the city series to Northern 69-65, the Tribe cagers closed their regular season with wins over Midland 72-67, Saginaw 74-69, and Arthur Hill 74-54. The Redskins finished third in the Saginaw Valley with a 5-3 slate. The Indians compiled an overall 11-3 mark with guard Dale Lucas leading team scorer at 220 points.

This fine record enabled the Redskins to play in the District tournaments at Midland. By beating Owosso 86-55 and Lapeer 74-47, the Tribe qualified for the Regional tournament. A fine .420 shooting average was responsible for the Owosso victory while a 23-4 last quarter point advantage brought the tribesmen victory over Lapeer.

In the Regionals, Coach Dowdy's cagers defeated a tall Alpena team 60-45 and came back to down their cross-town rival, Northern 64-57 in a hard-fought battle. Guard Marzzellus Wilson led the determined Indians with 20 points.

Traveling to Lansing to compete in the state quarter-finals, the Tribe met a strong Grand Rapids quintet and were defeated 66-57.

Little Indians shoot perfect season

Getting off to a running start, Central's J.V. basketball team easily won their first three games and then defeated Pontiac in a tremendously well-played game. The next games included victories over the Arthur Hill five and two close wins over Northern for a City Series championship.

Going on victoriously, the little Indians defeated one of Midland's best reserve teams in many years, plus beating Pontiac, the second best reserve team in the Valley Conference. They finished with two hard-fought wins over the Saginaw ball teams to complete an exceptional season of 14 victories and no defeats.

Ron Hartman and Benny Hill lead the team in point scoring. Also contributing to the perfectly-balanced club which obtained Valley and City Championships were Walt Franklin, Dick Marr, Howard Foote, Larry Turner, and Don Wright.

Completing the season with a perfect mark, the sophomore basketball team boasted a 10-0 overall record.

Topping the team in scoring were Jim Copeland, Dick Horning and Dennis Lang. Gary Goddard, Mervin Rettenmund and Dennis Riker were other first stringers.

Competing with sophomores from Bay City Central, Northern and Pontiac and the J.V. teams of Tech and St. Mikes, the sophomores averaged 58.1 points per game.

They set records for the 1958-59 season in the Medley and the Relay. Along with co-captains Ed Heinrich and Dick Stevenson, Art Shantz and Dick Bolton merited recognition in their fields.

The tankers won City Championship for the third year in a row. Also to their credit was a third-place rating in the Saginaw Valley Championship and the Saginaw Arthur Hill Relays.

A tie for twelfth place in the State Championship rounded out the season.

"Remember, keep your arms back," Coach Alex Crane tells Art Shantz as Ed Heinrich and Dick Stevenson watch with keen interest.

Athletics mark

The 1958 track team opened its season by winning two of the Huron relays in an indoor meet. The team continued its winning streak by placing second in the Central Michigan College relays where they set three records, placing sixth in the Mansfield Ohio relays, third in the All-Valley meet and second in the regionals at Ann Arbor.

Tribe trackmen proved their ability by obtaining the best finish Central has had in several years, a third place standing in the state meet.

Coach Jim Whittaker was indeed proud of his team and looked forward to a most promising season with the 1959 squad.

Under the excellent direction of Robert Alick, the 1959 golf team entered their season hoping to equal the fine record set by the 1958 squad.

In 1958 competition, the linksmen remained undefeated in dual match play for the second consecutive year. The squad also copped the city title, tied for the valley championship and placed second in the state.

As the 1959 tennis season approached, Tribe netters looked forward to equaling or surpassing last year's record. Despite twice bowing to Bay City Central, the 1958 Tribesmen tied with Arthur Hill for second place in the Saginaw Valley conference.

Jim Sines showed his ability by placing first in the regional tennis tournament at Owosso. This was the first time in twenty-four years as coach that Clem Rowe has had a sophomore win this title.

Under the fine supervision of Coach Ray Louthen, Central's 1958 baseball team won 11 games while losing 8. At the end of the season, Mr. Louthen transferred to Ball State Teachers' College and was succeeded by Tim Bograkov, the 1958 J.V. coach. Coach Bograkov's team compiled an impressive 16-3 record.

The 1959 season could prove interesting with several returning letterman and a host of promising J.V. players rounding out the varsity squad. Guiding the fortunes of this year's J.V. club will be former Tribe star Bob Leach.

Intramurals promote

Boys' intramural sports, under the supervision of Nap LaVoie, drew increasing attention this year as competition between the teams gained momentum.

Free-throw winners were Howie Parsell, John Martinez and John Bechtold who were among several boys in the gym trying for the honor.

During the first semester 12 intramural teams bowled against each other.

On Thursday evenings 16 teams played basketball creating strong competition between themselves as tension mounted because of the contest for the championship.

The physical education classes provided practice for competition in the weekly basketball tournaments.

Keeping score is fun for two bowling enthusiasts, Karen Coggins and Sara Lee Watson.

With a look of anticipation, Mary LaVoie steps up to better her bowling score.

skill and competition

Fall, with its cool breezes and falling leaves, gives girls a desire to use up their energy by participating in sports.

Two nights a week, interested girls meet for an evening of bowling. The ones who take advantage of this sport find enjoyment in learning the details of the game, then practicing them with hopes of raising their score. They also earn ten points toward an athletic letter.

With a "bully", Betty Johnson, Marilyn Cragg, Jessie Walker, Norma Dolphin, and Mary Alice Rhodes start the game of the day, field hockey.

Field hockey, a girls' sport is practiced in Dort Field Monday and Thursday nights. Many girls, the majority of whom are sophomores, change into gym suits or other play clothes after school and then hurry out to take part in the roughest girls' sport Central offers.

As the end the season draws near, hockey players put away their hockey sticks, pucks and shin guards, but bowlers continue exercising throughout the winter months.

Balls and birdies take over the gym

Badminton, supervised by Miss Dorothy Breda, began at the end of the first semester and continued well into the second.

Playoffs began after a few days of instruction and demonstration. The girls became well acquainted with the serve, the clear and other shots essential in scoring the necessary twenty-one points.

Sophomore, junior and senior girls who wished to participate in basketball came out on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights for instruction and coaching by Miss Rae Davis.

This year, the girls were divided into seven teams called the Barbarians, Little Braves, Martians, Goalies, Topsy Turvies and Olympians. Each team was composed of six girls and three or four substitutes. The teams competed against each other with the desire of eliminating the opponents and becoming champion.

Taking advantage of free time before practice are Jan Williston, Jan Dullinger and Sue Mestrazat.

Francis Hoeffgen steadies her aim as she prepares to make a free throw for her team.

Girls combine efforts to make a team

Play-off tournaments in March marked the winner of the three competing volleyball teams. Preparation for the matches began in February under the supervision of Miss Ray Davis.

Skillfulness and proficiency increased with each practice session. These sessions took place twice a week after school, offering the girls more time to practice application of newly-learned techniques.

Acquiring techniques, in addition to obtaining information pertaining to swim show phases, Central girls truly profited by the knowledge obtained during the synchronized swim clinic in February.

Directing the clinic were two physical education instructors from Michigan State University who were very helpful in giving pointers and suggestions.

Although the clinic was open to all girls, every member of Central's Synchronized Swim Club participated in the activities.

Ready to assist Karen Lewis' serve are Kay Hashburger and Barb Blazier.

"One more light tap, girls, and the ball will be over the net!"

Members of the Synchronized Swim Club work for precision timing.

Spring sports invigorate

Tennis ranked high in popularity in girls' physical education classes again this year. Under the direction of Miss Ray Davis and Miss Dorothy Breda basic fundamentals of the game were demonstrated to the participants.

Girls working toward their athletic letters took advantage of the fine archery range and equipment. Taking part in these sports offered not only physical relaxation but also opportunities to improve skills.

Careful observance of Doris Stecker's technique seemingly gave Barb Kohn the needed confidence in making a bull's-eye.

How to grasp a tennis racket is demonstrated by Miss Dorothy Breda while Judy Kolbe, Susan Jensen, Dorothy Linn, Margaret Florida, Brenda Symon, Beverly Harrington, and Nancy Meadows watch the procedure with interest.

As the ball comes toward her, Brenda Symon gets into position to put power behind it in the return play.

A sunny, spring day! Constance Childress, Patricia McBride, Judi Grove, and Lola Kimmerly grasp at the opportunity to practice their golf.

The invigorating fresh air may have brought about the enthusiastic feeling which Rae Ann Withey, Carol Bloodworth, Julie Grennidge, and Lola Fenley have for hiking.

Girls earn athletic letters

In the spring, Central girls discover there are many sports to "wake them up" from a long, cold winter.

Softball, played in Dort Field, provides sun and exercise for any interested girl, as well as gives her ten points toward an athletic letter.

Golf, introduced only recently, offers ten points per hour of instruction to the one who completes a nine-hole round of golf.

The natural sport of girls who like to walk is hiking. For each mile of enjoyment, they earn two points.

Another spring sport, softball, draws a large crowd. Eagerly listening to Miss Rae Davis while she gives directions are (standing) Arlene Engen, Donna Stewart, Jessie Walker, Lola Fenley, and (sitting) Betty Johnson.

Driveaways——and Graduation!

gerald, Francis Spicko, Bill Francis, Sue Grant, Mike Auer, Bob Barton, Mike Hamp, Kay Morris, Bob Ebmeyer, Ruth Shue, Mimi Livingston, Sam Phillips.

Seniors

Summer is here and Central has completed another annual cycle. Each year an Alma Mater, like Mother Nature, brings forth her promising, budding seniors, ready to blossom out and take their places in the summers, autumns, and winters of life.

This year's seniors will always cherish the memories of their three wonderful years at Central. Since their sophomore year they have enjoyed teamwork and cooperation in planning dances, supporting the teams, electing officers, and taking part in all of the various school activities.

They will always love to reminisce over the carefree happiness of their Junior Prom and smile through their tears at the memories of their Senior Couple Dance and, most of all, their Senior Prom. These are all wonderful moments which certainly helped to build a love for their school and classmates that will remain forever.

But they must not cling to these memories; they must put them away as the richest of these coins

"that time cannot take nor a thief purloin".

When they receive their diplomas, they will find that they must leave behind their carefree years and take on new responsibilities as mature adults in a modern world.
